"All hail to thee, our Alma Mater strong;
We'll sing thy praise through all our days,
With this triumphant song.

"All hail to thee, and as the days go by
We'll pledge our faith and love and loyalty,
Greensboro Senior High."

The theme of the 1960 WHIRLIGIG concerns an intangible quality that we believe is a real and basic part of our school. This quality, whatever else it may be, is a force that contributes directly toward the ultimate success of many of this school's graduates. Surely it includes some stimulation, some inspiration, and many opportunities for mental and emotional growth toward a well-rounded personality. It is to this inherent and dynamic force that we dedicate the 1960 WHIRLIGIG.

Academics

Before an individual can succeed he must learn to think for himself. Senior High, through a wide variety of academic subjects, tries to meet this challenge. Courses including these concepts — thought-provoking lessons and exercises, demanding opinions and decisions; opportunities for individual research; discussions requiring thought, then articulate expression — always have paved the way to true success for the actively interested student at Senior High.

Library experiences enhance English assignments,

VOCABULARY growth is no accident; it's a product of wide reading and frequent contact with a dictionary.

Nine out of ten sophomores agreed that poor Silas Marner's troubles made their own seem small. But they discovered that it all "came out" in the end and, breathing sighs of relief, they moved on to King Arthur's Court. Merlin provided a puff of smoke and off they went, backward in time, to look in on the assassination of Julius Caesar. Finally after a brief, romantic sojourn in exotic Siam, they returned home just in time for exams.

Juniors slaved over their first short stories, and thus learned to appreciate the works of other authors. Poe and Hemingway, Hawthorne, Irving, and Longfellow were never more thoroughly examined.

Seniors rambled to Canterbury with Chaucer in "that Aprille" but had trouble with the language. Macbeth and Hamlet not only made them welcome, but fascinated them completely. However, as the (political) climate was unhealthy, they returned home. Besides, term papers were about due, and a long session with Reader's Guide, note-taking, outlining and writing were on their agenda.

Not only was the library indispensable to term-paper writers, but it was invaluable to everyone in need of dictionaries and other reference books, career files and magazines, films and recordings, and books, books, books. Whether one was doing research, or just reading for a regular English book report, or preparing a speech for speech class, or looking for a more colorful word for creative writing, he could be found in almost any spare moment checking in at the library to sample its treasures.

FASCINATING BOOKS for every taste and a friendly atmosphere make the library an inviting place for research and reading.

Studying languages, Bible, and history increases

In their search for knowledge, Senior's students studied some of everything from foreign languages to the Bible. In foreign languages — French, for instance — the course was made more interesting through the use of records, films, recording machines, even comic books. When the bell rang to begin a language class, for an hour it seemed as though that part of Senior was magically transported to romantic France, sunny Spain, or ancient Rome.

The ageless wisdom and undying truths from the world's greatest book were carefully studied in Bible class. Students found that its ancient lessons are a guide in solving present-day problems. To many, this course gave a timeless feeling of security.

student awareness and tolerance, broadens outlook

TELEVISION history is a challenge to students and teachers alike, requiring expert listening and note-taking.

To the serious and curious student, a knowledge of man's history is always useful and important. To learn the proper sequence and significance of historical developments, as well as basic elements in our own nation's story, many interested students enrolled in elective courses. Besides the required United States history, there were teeming classes in world history, geography, economics, government, and international relations. The weekly American Observer and current magazines supplemented the texts. By year's end many students were able to discuss, in animated and well-informed style, various phases of history — from ancient to current.

MAPS bring graphic reality to discussions of international relations.

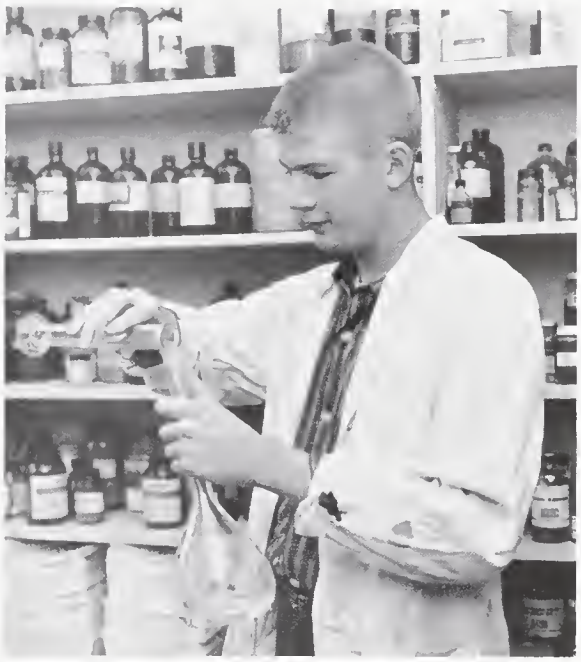
Math and science stimulate curiosity and research

CONSTRUCTING geometric figures is a major step in proving a theorem.

The mathematics program at Senior High was based on a progression from basic, simple ideas to more complex concepts. The student planning for college or the one intending to work immediately after graduation found subjects which suited his plans. After one year of math, he could either stop or go to more advanced studies. From algebra's equations and formulas he could proceed into formal proofs and constructions of plane geometry. The complex shapes of solid geometry were next, then the triangles of trigonometry. Finally the serious student could find a real intellectual challenge in college algebra.

SLIDE RULE is useful device in solving mysteries of trigonometry.

PRACTICAL demonstrations prove abstract laws.



CHEMISTRY study includes individual research.

Senior High's science program led students through the wonderful worlds of biology, chemistry, and physics. To sophomores, taking a field trip to locate mushrooms, dissecting a frog, peeking through a microscope to detect life in a drop of water—such new experiences made every biology class unusual. Juniors and seniors found chemistry and physics equally amazing. Especially on lab days, there was excitement in the air. In a laboratory a student could discover and prove — by himself and for his own satisfaction — that the laws in the book actually work. And there, abstract ideas became clear through practical graphic demonstrations.

Home economics and commercial courses increase a

More and more GHS girls planned for the future by taking home economics. During the year the girls worked in the kitchen and at the sewing machines, as well as getting first hand experience with children in the kindergarten. Their sewing creations were presented at the annual fashion show in January, which highlighted the year's work.

In family life and child development an equal number of girls and boys prepared for future home life. To supplement the course they saw practical demonstrations, heard family counselors, ministers and other successful advisors, took part in panel discussions—all designed to answer many of their questions about making a good home.

SKILL in table setting and meal preparation is one product of good home economics training.

Typewriters clacked as students put into practice those charts that they had memorized the first six weeks of school. Stiff fingers finally responded to the seemingly endless exercises, however, and finally attained the unbelievable speed of sixty words a minute. Shorthand students spent many hours learning what those scribbles meant, how to write them, and — hardest of all — how to read them back after they had been written.

Future bookkeepers added and erased, then added again those long columns of figures, preparing for possible careers in the world of business and finance. And skills learned in other courses were put to use in clerical practice, where students achieved a further mastery of many office machines.

With smudged hands and an intent concentration, boys in machine shop learned the secrets of drills, lathes, and presses. They took machines apart, rebuilt them, used them to work with metal. And intricate precision tools or simple machine parts gradually took shape and acquired a burnished sheen.

In wood shop students took shapeless lumber and converted it into polished tables, chairs, desks. The boys learned to work slowly and carefully, so that their finished furniture would be as nearly perfect as loving care could make it.

To many boys, printing was a new world of inks, type styles, and presses. Though offered only during second semester, printing was as useful to the school as to boys learning a trade — it produced many of the office forms needed here.

D. O. Office Practice bridges school-to-business gap

Bridging the gap between worlds of school and business was the primary concern of the D. O. Office Practice program this year. D. O. taught thirty students practical uses for the basic business skills they had acquired in various commercial courses. After morning classes, which helped students adjust to the business world, they went off to clerical jobs in many local businesses. Employers found them mature and eager to learn as much as possible about the business into which their job took them. So success-

D. O. Trade students, knowing the work they want to do after graduation, took a double load: in the morning regular classes; in the afternoon, work at various businesses in Greensboro. Each of the types of work done by the D. O. Trades students requires a minimum of 2,000 hours for a worker to achieve proficiency. This year the boys had such jobs as automobile body work, baking, and leather work; the girls served as nurses' aides, telephone operators, dental assistants. The D. O. Trades program has been in operation for many years and past experience has shown that students who participated in the classes were usually more successful at their work than other graduates.

Select D. O. students participated in a television program in February. In March, the classes helped the other cooperative classes sponsor a banquet for their employers. The classes helped present an assembly program late in the spring in the interest of recruiting future D. O. students. The big highlight of the year, however, was in April when the Greensboro D. PTSA COUNCIL — Thompson, Wood, MacFarland, Barney, Routh, Quinn, Weber, Markham, Jernigan, Waldron, Stout, Barrier, Taliaferro.

At the first meeting of the PTSA this year, Mr. Routh consented to talk to the assembled group on Senior's past history and statistics. At this time the Student Council and board members were introduced to the assembled PTSA members. Other activities planned by this co-operative group of parents and student officers were the always-popular room visitation meeting, where parents followed their children's schedules, and later a purely social reception for the teachers held in the girls' gym to observe American Education week. This hard-working group, a very important one at Senior High, appropriated money for Student Council and Youth Council activities, contributed $200 for Whirligig and did many other worthwhile jobs around GHS.

PTSA BOARD meets often at Senior High to plan programs and projects. They are, seated. Starmer, President Thompson, Quinn, Stout, Jernigan, Weber. Standing: Harmon, Bowen, Stout.

In his second year as Superintendent of Greensboro schools, Mr. P. J. Weaver continued his far-seeing attitude toward problems that constantly beset a school system so large and complex. He and the School Board extended a building program begun several years ago. Jackson Junior High School was opened last fall, and Senior High will receive its first sophomores from there this year.

As Greensboro mushrooms, Mr. Weaver and the board foresee eventual needs and take steps to meet them. At every board meeting there are contractors to interview, important decisions to make, plans to revise and enlarge, and countless other responsibilities to be faced in dynamic fashion.

SUPERINTENDENT P. J. Weaver (seated) confers often with Dr. W. J. House, Director of Instruction.

Principal A. P. Routh is efficient administrator and PRINCIPAL of Senior High is Mr. A. P. Routh, who is constantly faced with challenges.

To a principal, a school as large and complex as Greensboro Senior High offers innumerable challenges. Although Mr. Routh delegates many responsibilities to assistants and faculty members, there are still constant demands upon his time and ingenuity. Whether the problem is a worried or irate parent, three teachers ill at once, an imaginary "hidden bomb," or a game, contest and meeting to be attended simultaneously, Mr. Routh somehow summons up the time, the patience, and the thought to handle each problem satisfactorily.

Last spring Mr. Routh celebrated his twenty-fifth year as principal of GHS. It is the wisdom and administrative acumen gleaned and developed during those years as head of a constantly growing school that have made Mr. Routh the adept organizer and resourceful executive he has become.

Several classes a day and, for many, an extra-curricular responsibility, kept Senior High's eighty teachers quite busy all year. They attended many meetings, filled out reports and more reports, appeared on radio and TV panels, even made speeches. A highlight of the school year was Mr. Glenn's moving speech on Honor Code Day. The guidance counselors went to junior high schools to help ninth graders prepare for entering GHS next fall. For the first time GHS had two full-time guidance counselors.

Nothing was more evident in their busy lives than their enthusiasm and interest in extra activities around GHS. Every game, play, or concert had, not just one teacher behind scenes as trouble-shooters, but many more applauding and cheering out front.

The GHS faculty had several new teachers as replacements this year, including Miss STRAIN of suspense is balanced by pride and relief, while the show goes on.

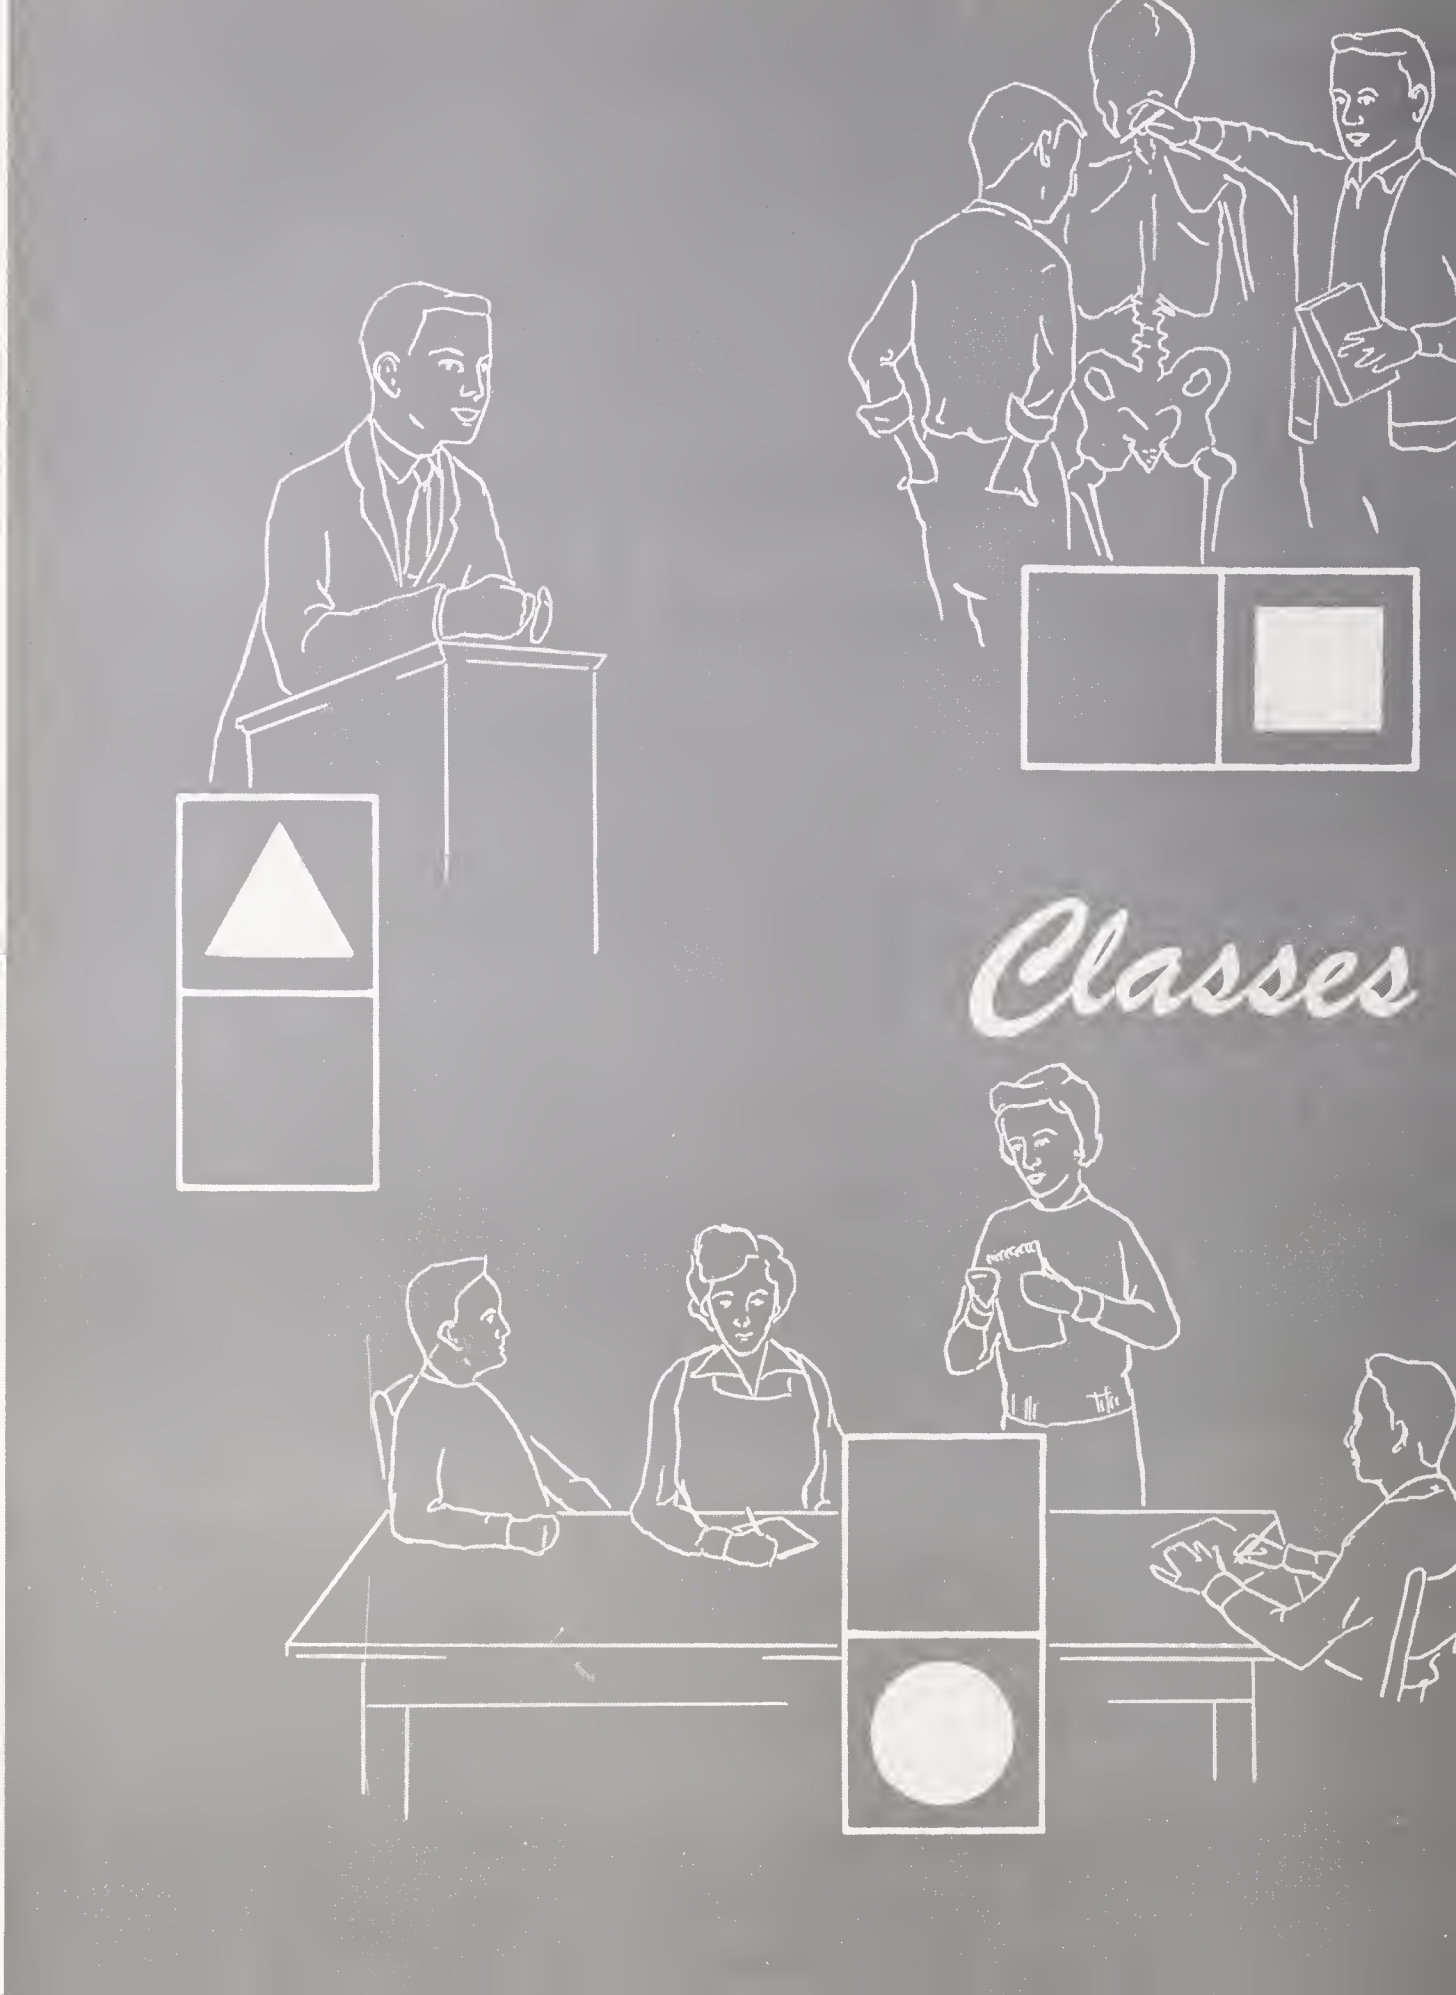
BACKSTAGE at talent show, Torchlight advisor Madlin reassures performer.



Classes

Each day at Senior High an individual comes in direct contact with at least two hundred people. These associations present him many ideas and attitudes. From these concepts the student chooses those which he feels best for himself; adding a bit from his own philosophy, he then sets a pattern for his life. Through participation in organizations and athletics, a student gains much more than mere pleasure. He becomes aware of the problems of others, and thereby he learns to approach his own problems realistically and how to serve his fellow man more fully.

With enthusiasm and spirit the Class of '62 meets

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS—Gardiner, Sheets, Advisor Roe, Freedman, and President Tontz — lead classmates off to a fast start for the Class of 1962.

September, 1959, gave GHS another multitude of innocent little Sophomores. We seemed to be so different from all the calm, collected Juniors and Seniors . . . who gave us the age-old title: Sophomore! After the long struggle with the temperamental lockers, traffic rules, and other major problems was behind us, we elected our class officers. It was these newly elected officers and homeroom presidents who led the pencil sales to help pay for our pages in the 1960 Whirligig. When the time came we invaded the school with our spirited attack in hopes of selling all our pencils as soon as possible. Our victims' only defense was to buy so we would stop boring them.

Enthusiasm was the key to our success in the struggle forward. Our loyal participation at the games and open houses added to the new-found idea of liking Senior. Even excessive homework and accelerated classes fell into place with the extra-curricular activities and organizations offered by our school. Several Sophomores achieved high honors. Two boys made the varsity football team. Four Sophomores auditioned and received places in the All-State Orchestra. Two others ranked as members of the Workshop Orchestra, a branch of the All-State Orchestra. Both were held in Raleigh early in February.

After we struggled through exams we endured our first Senior-style registration.

PENCILS, pencils, pencils! As class project, sophomores sell these indispensable articles bearing sports schedules.

Senior High's challenges and looks for new goals

This new experience gave us another inkling of how busy and complex GHS life actually is.

Under leadership of Mrs. Julia Roe, Sophomore advisor, and Miss Mary Furey, guidance counselor, our year came to a successful end. The initial year has held hard work but a lot of fun; we have earned ourselves a new title . . . Juniors. Now our inevitable next step is to assume that higher level as Juniors, and take our revenge on naive new sophomores, now on their way to GHS from four junior high schools.

GUIDANCE counselor Furey helps sophomore see the relationship between present courses and future careers.

GREGARIOUS sophomores always manage to find a time and place to talk.

Wide-awake juniors bear giant-sized responsibilities

Many juniors, eager to leave behind forever the odious title of "sophomore" registered a day earlier than the official registration day this year; but other juniors, not so eager for school to begin, waited until the last possible minute. However, whether they registered one day or the next, they were never tardy when it came to accepting their class responsibilities and carrying them to a conclusion.

From the first day, the junior class officers worked hand in hand with Miss Peggy Joyner, the junior class advisor. Mrs. Jean Newman joined in to help them with their class project. To earn money to pay for their pages in this Whirligig, juniors could be found in the halls for days peddling their new miracle product "Nu-Sew." Each junior had to sell at least one bottle, which more than reached the quota set by the class.

Enthusiastic were the lucky juniors who were elected marshals. From each junior homeroom there were two representatives who served as ushers for all important school activities. They were especially helpful during graduation exercises.

—preparing with eagerness for future leadership

SELLING a "fix-it" preparation that eliminates sewing is a Junior class project.

BIG THRILL of Junior year is finally getting a GHS ring.

When November came, the juniors presented the annual junior class Thanksgiving program. Dr. Harold Hutson, president of Greensboro College, spoke from a stage decorated to fit the season.

May brought to the juniors the realization that they were only one step from the end of their high school days. Then came also the long-awaited rings engraved with the big letter "G." These treasures were to remind them ever of their many services and fun at Greensboro Senior High.

No one was without a program or a seat as long as the Marshals ushered at all the Senior High functions. With Chief Charles Thompson, and assistants Anne Starr Minton and Sam White running the show, these assignments, plus collecting tickets and providing any needed information to the public, were accomplished in a dependable, organized manner. Besides their white dresses and dark suits, their traditional trademarks were navy-blue-and-white ribbons and sparkling, ready-to-help smiles.

CHIEF MARSHAL Thompson gets combined approval of PTSA president (his mother) and Marshals advisors Joyner and Mitchell.

Rain or shine, juniors race seniors to parking lot

REACHING the parking lot first is naturally more important than keeping dust or mud off shoes!

For two years we had lived for our senior year—to be able to tease the sophomores, sit in the middle section of the auditorium, and to feel self-assured and important. Yet somehow, when we were finally registering, all these things seemed trivial. Last year's seniors, the leaders we had looked up to and followed, were gone. We suddenly realized that we had a long way to go to fill their shoes. We accepted the challenge, however, with happy hearts, setting out to make the school year '59-'60 Senior's best ever.

The football games with the gay open houses afterward provided an opportunity for seeing old friends and meeting new ones. We are certain that our eager pushing of ribbons and school spirit helped our football team win their second place berth in the State Championship.

Before we knew it the busy fall was over, and it was time for the Senior Class to begin work on their traditional Christmas Pageant. The simple yet meaningful portrayal of the true Christmas Story awakened a joyful spirit for the oncoming season.

All too soon the holidays were over and we were jolted back to reality with preparations for exams. The week nights were later enlivened by unscheduled trips to the library for research papers and by exciting basketball games.

jam open houses, lead every activity, even study

GUIDANCE counselor Blackmon answers any senior's questions about college choice and admission.

RIBBON SALES have two-fold object — boosting school spirit and raising money for Senior class.

Just as the happiest days seem like hours, our last semester at Senior High drew quickly to a close. After a mad rush to the Senior Tea, Class Day, then the Prom, we found ourselves awaiting the all-important scrolls —our diplomas. We must leave GHS, but our high school days, and especially our senior year, will live forever in our hearts.

WHICH COLLEGE to choose becomes major problem to serious seniors.

SUPERLATIVES—Front row: MOST COURTEOUS: Sherry Mullins, Bobby Dixon. FRIENDLIEST: Sondra Childress, Ed Black. BEST PERSONALITY: Sue Anne Wrenn, Tootie Blair. WITTIEST: Helen Stanfield, Charles Jones. Second row: MOST ATHLETIC: Christina Stewart, Bob Jamieson (absent). CUTEST: Betty Tucker, Buster Wales. MOST INTELLECTUAL: Peter Weltner. Tara Dinkel (absent).

All surpassing their classmates in various ways,

SUPERLATIVE students stand out from the crowd

OUT-OF-CLASS moments are often spent in gabby session over large, economy-sized ashtray.

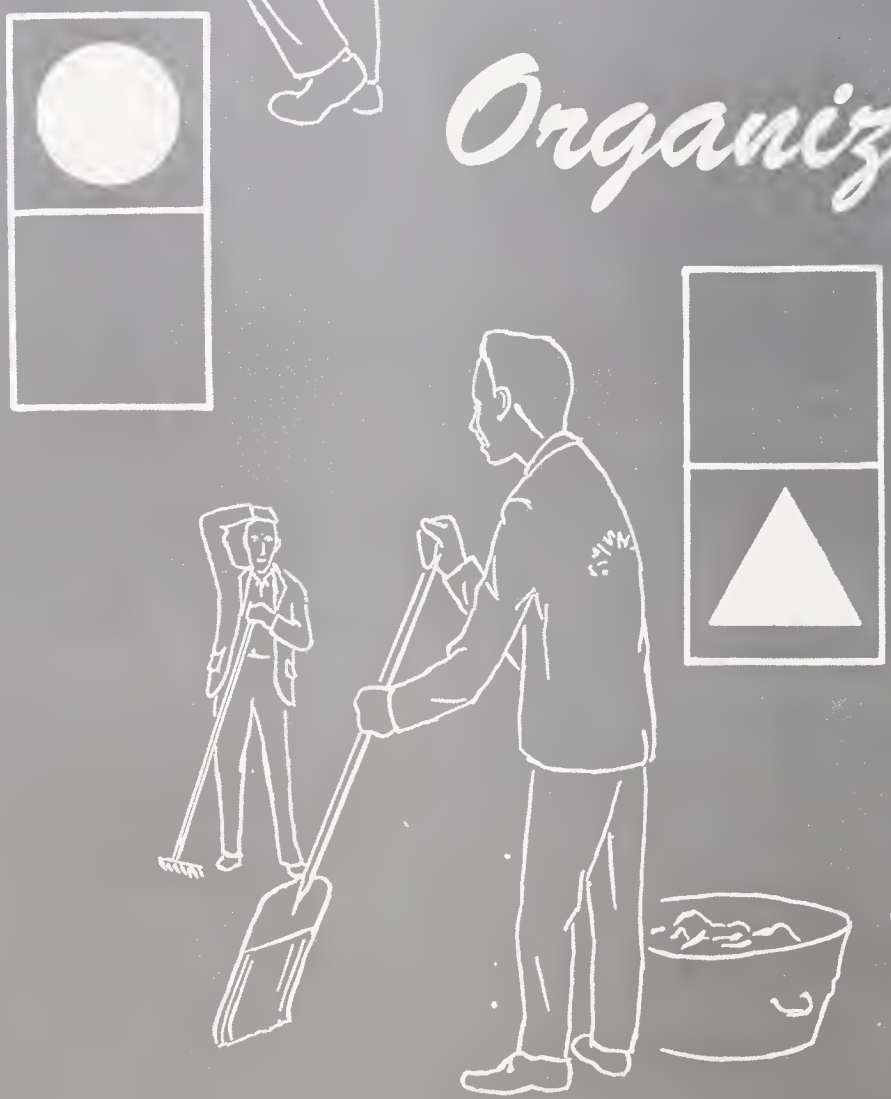
Organizations



Not only is the ability to lead an important quality, but so is the ability to follow. In all of Senior High's organizations — from service clubs to musical groups — opportunities to develop such qualities are abundant. Students learn to welcome responsibility and to take pride in a job well done; they recognize need for comradeship and cooperation. Success demands these realizations, and for the mindful student, Senior High adequately meets the needs.

Dynamic Student Council

Members of the Student Council began this school year by sponsoring the sophomore orientation and elections, and helping with the registration for classes. With Carol Smith at its head, these representatives of the students worked long hours at often thankless tasks. were only a few of the valuable services carried out through the diligence of the Student Council.

Members of the Council made arrangements and decorated for Midwinters—using "Mardi Gras" as their theme. On Honor Code Day representatives from the Council were dispatched to homerooms to help a panel in each room discuss the GHS Honor Code. Under the supervision of Miss Mary Furey and Mrs. Mary Moody, the council enjoyed a year full of service to others.

Youth Council's open houses add to student fun

YC OFFICERS: Glascock, Anderson, Chairman Wall, Parks, Tucker.

Balloons were popped, faces were covered with whipped cream, and peculiar concoctions were swallowed by sophomores at the initiation into Youth Recreation Council. After each home football or basketball game, the council held an open house. There some students enjoyed dancing to the music of a swinging band or the latest platters; others munched refreshments and gabbed about the outcome of the game. At Halloween the council members went "trick or treating" for UNICEF; also they helped decorate for Midwinters and the Spring Prom. Their colorful float entered in the Christmas parade won third prize in the competition.

Two Library Council members hold top state offices

The library council members are all members of the North Carolina High School Library Association, and they certainly made their presence in this organization felt. Pat Adams was state president, Peggy King state vice president. The state convention met in Greensboro April 8-9, with these members helping to make it successful.

In addition, library council boys helped by showing films to classes, and the council made work easier for students by checking their permits and helping them locate references. The student body would almost literally have been lost without them.

At the beginning of the school year, sophomores may have been confused by members of the traffic squad who constantly voiced opinions as to which stairs to go up, which doors to go out, and where not to walk. The sophomores soon realized, however, that the fellows wearing blue arm bands were doing a big job well. Before and after school and between classes, these thirty-three seniors, under the able leadership of Traffic Chief "Tootie" Blair and advisor Mr. Darnell, kept the sometime rambunctious population of GHS in order. Through conscientious effort, but with plenty of time for laughs, the traffic squad fulfilled an important role this year.

Over 255 miles of city and county roads, the big orange fleet of school buses rolled daily. The Wheel Club boys propelled the seventeen buses and safely transported around 2,000 pupils daily to and from Greensboro's city schools. Mornings and evenings found them patiently making their rounds, in spite of rain or cold, chattering children, or popping bubble-gum. Mr. Lody Glenn, advisor of the group, selected dependable boys for this important job and kept close checks on their driving habits. Once a month at the Mayfair Cafeteria, the club gathered for a supper meeting, an enjoyable reward for these harassed GHS bus drivers.

Typing endless reports, greeting visitors, and running errands kept volunteer office workers busy all year. Answering the GHS telephones, checking on tardies and looking up schedules are typical of services performed by Miss Wood's assistants. In the Guidance Center the helpers stayed busy with errands and filing.

At the school store, presided over by Mr. Johnson, workers cut coupons, took inventory, and prepared orders for stores in other schools. Mr. Glenn and his bookroom assistants counted, checked, and numbered thousands of books. The long line which formed at the bookroom several times a year always moved along quickly.

As teachers' aides the Future Teachers of America tried in various ways to make the faculty's work lighter. During American Education Week the club sponsored Teacher Appreciation Day, on which they gave a homemade cupcake and an individual poem to each faculty member as a token of gratitude.

An entertaining skit depicting teaching through the centuries was presented at GHS by some of the members—with such success that they were asked to repeat it at several other schools.

MAKE-UP committee works to enhance a performer's beauty or to create the desired illusion.

The Playmasters, a group of students interested in dramatics, met once a month at the homes of members. Along with their advisor, Miss Causey, they discussed the various phases of dramatic skills, such as make-up, scenery, stage lighting, and acting, and they learned theatrical terminology. To become a member of Playmasters, each aspirant had to earn a minimum of 100 points by working on committees, by designing posters, and by various other projects.

Soon they began work on the one-act plays destined for the state dramatics contest at UNC in the spring. One-act plays sounded easy to produce—but judges are mighty strict!

As the Whirligig went to press, members of Playmasters were deeply engrossed, along with other dramatics students, in preparing their three-act melodrama, "I Was a Teenage Dracula." Director Christina Stewart continually revised lines and some cast member's interpretation of his part. Typical of her remonstrances was: "No! No! You're supposed to look ghastly. Don't grin at me like that!" Meanwhile the assistant director and the crew were not idle. Various committees were solving technical problems associated with such a great production: finding enough thread to sew up that rip, enough paint to complete the scenery, and another can of shoe polish (black stockings are so hard to obtain). The play was finally presented, and the Playmasters sighed with well-earned relief and satisfaction.

Bi-weekly High Life keeps GHS readers up-to-date

LITERARY STAFF—Edwards, Pfaff, Acree, Deese, Carrigan, Barrier—write articles and features, read proof.

If you had dropped into the High Life "inner sanctum" at any recent sixth or seventh period you would surely have been surprised. For there, standing on a table, you would have seen Linda, staff cartoonist, busy sketching the traditional portraits of 1959 staff leaders. As the drawings progressed you could almost see Ralph pleading with the journalism students for just "one more ad!" Of course, at times his appeal was answered so well there wasn't room for copy. Then Jean Ellen would panic. What to do with the Honor Roll? How could we possibly cut out part of "Senior Steadies"? Through it all Geanie added to the general confusion by misplacing everything. She continually wore the "Where's-My-Anacin" look.

Make-up for the sports pages was usually well taken care of unless Jeanie decided to "help" Bill and Tommy. Wade was always unhappy. Could he help it if all the jokes he wrote for "Hall Tales" seemed to be a little shady?

In spite of chaos, the paper always came out on time; the portraits were finally completed. From their place on the wall, staff members now stare at a meaningful cartoon on the opposite wall. The words beneath it read, "The pen is mightier than the sword."

TOP TWO — Advisor Powell and Editor Rottman coordinate work of Whirligig staff to publish this book.

Chaos abounded in the new Whirligig room as the '59-'60 staff labored to win the eleventh straight All-American award. The staff swarmed in a beehive of activity from the time Sherry and her editors were elected in the Spring until the dummy was whisked off to the printers by Mr. Fleming.

Tootie's idea of taking group pictures in two days left the necessary time to capture those priceless moments, but nothing could ease the editing of copy for Ann and Jess. Jerry (we think) artistically carried the theme through the book while Larry (the other twin) methodically cropped and mounted pictures. With Mr. Colson's help Bev and Toni handled the money and urged salesmen to greater effort. Inevitable queries of "Where's the dummy?" could have a double meaning—the battered plan book or Preston—depending upon what kind of help was desired.

As the February deadline inexorably drew closer, the hectic pace speeded up. Finally the dummy was exactly right and we began to count the days until delivery.

This publication, edited by Tara Dinkel, was published in December and quickly sold out.

If you had happened to drop in on any of their meetings, you would have found the members deeply engrossed in their discussions and helpful criticisms of each other's writings. Mrs. Newman, advisor, and the club president, Tara Dinkel, skillfully stimulated members to develop their creative abilities.

The Euterpe-Symphonia metronome marked a rapid pace of events this year. The slow 4/4 time of November was enriched with a visit by Dr. George Perry, director of the N. C. Student Euterpe Clubs, who ended this meeting with a stirring Beethoven piano solo. During the last three months of school the time was a zippy 6/8. The first beat was a social, where all the members ate a delicious dinner together. The second and third beat were tied by Sharon Kellam, who prepared a yearbook and scrapbook for the members. The fourth beat was a Senior recital. The fifth and sixth beat fell on a two-day Euterpe state convention in early May.

Glee Clubs strive for vocal and verbal perfection

The beginners' glee club is a group of young hopefuls just starting the long climb to their coveted goal—a place in the choir. The next step up the ladder is the advanced glee club, for most of next year's choir members will come from this group. The main difficulties to be overcome by the singers are the mastery of "deep controlled breathing" and sight-reading, and the memorizing of words to dozens and dozens of songs.

At the Homecoming game the glee clubs joined the band and choir to sing selections from "Oklahoma," ignoring the threat of menacing clouds. For Torchlight tapping the advanced glee club provided a musical background. During the Christmas pageant all the singing groups thrilled the student body with inspiring carols. In spring the advanced glee club sang at the State music educators' conference at Woman's College.

Choir's polish comes with practice and programs

POLISHED programs at civic club luncheon meetings spread the choir's fame, enchant listeners.

CHOIR LIBRARIAN Judy Routh helps director Tuttle keep tabs on a vast number and variety of songs.

Glee Club members had a goal—a place in the choir. Seventy-two choir members had a goal too — perfection. To reach this goal they employed effort, energy, enthusiasm, endless hours of practice, and the infinite patience of "Tuttle" and "Meredith." In classes and in study halls the directors worked with the group to improve vocal technique and sight-reading ability.

Senior High Orchestra performs with precision

ENSEMBLE makes music at 1939 Senior Tea.

After the highlight of the Choir-Orchestra concert in December, everyone in the orchestra started working toward another superior rating in the state contest.

The orchestra was well-represented in the All-State concert at Broughton High School in Raleigh, late in January. For this event nineteen musicians from GHS went to Raleigh. There also, a workshop orchestra, a training group for all-state, had six more members from Senior High.

"Singing Strings," an orchestra ensemble, was invited to play at the United Fund luncheon, the Coliseum opening, and a fashion show at Starmount.

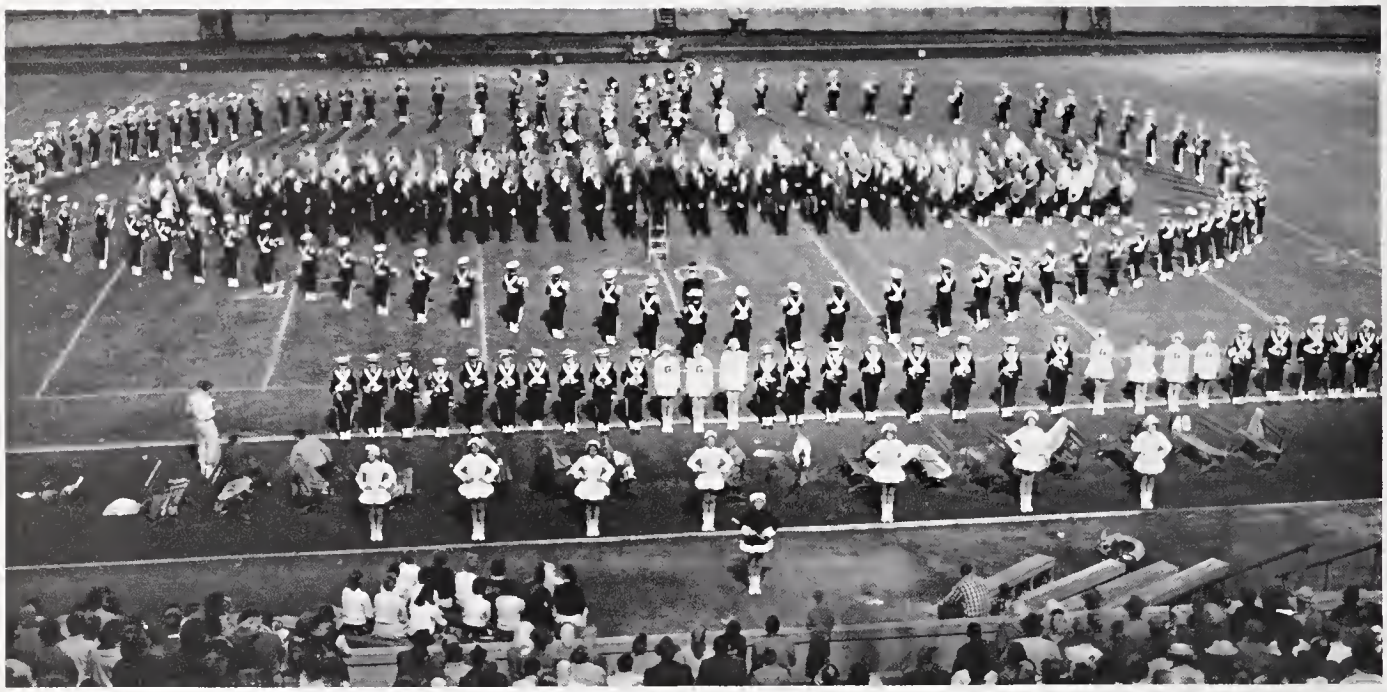
Guest conductor at the same concert, Mr. Earle Slocum director emeritus of the UNC band, directed the premiere of his arrangement of the "Good Friday Spell" from Parsifal, by Wagner. The band was truly honored when Mr. M. Thomas Cousins wrote "Sinai" especially for the Senior High band and choir. This is considered the greatest honor ever bestowed on the band.

NERVOUS wait for judges' decision is final stage of state contest.



BAND AND CHORUSES team up for a delightful half-time show with "Oklahoma" tunes.

Although rain frustrated many attempts at marching and caused numerous mad dashes to the music building, the marching band put on many excellent shows, one of which was with the choir and glee clubs and featured selections from "Oklahoma." They also went to Charlotte to perform at the Shrine Bowl game.

In June, the concert band is going to Miami for the national Kiwanis Club Convention, and on to Nassau. Band members are looking forward to wearing the Bermuda shorts, which are the new "tropical uniforms."

Mr. Herbert Hazelman, widely recognized band director (and known to his loving students as "Herb") celebrated his twenty-third anniversary with the band this year. Graduating band members will remember "Herb" for his Madras shirts, his loud red vest, his cries of "No! Stupid! No!" to the percussion section, and his definition of the word "pungent." (Ask any oboe player.) Members will always consider playing in the band a wonderful and rewarding experience.

Torchlight selects those who excel in scholarship,

TORCHLIGHT officers: Conner, Parker, President Stone, Advisor Madlin, Thompson.

Outstanding scholarship, leadership, service, and character—these are the qualities of the student of GHS who achieves acceptance into Torchlight National Honor Society. The moving strains of "Ave Maria" opened the tapping ceremony for new members—twice during the school year—as the older members of Torchlight filed into the darkened auditorium. Though the student body remained in quiet and serious anticipation, here and there could be heard a muffled, "I told you so!" or "Good! He really deserves it!" and sometimes a muffled gasp of amazement from a lucky student being suddenly tapped into this honored group. By giving a Talent Show, Torchlight members raised money for the scholarship they award annually. They were assisted in this project

New JCL members were inducted at a very impressive ceremony at which they took their oath and sang Latin songs. At the Christmas program the members sang carols in Latin and the officers lighted Saturnalia candles. A spring program enjoyed by all of the members was a "singerama" of Latin songs.

Honor came to the local JCL when Ann Thayer was elected state treasurer. Cricket Conner and Priscilla Caudle attended the national JCL convention in Northfield, Minnesota, last summer. Putting to use some of what they learned, Cricket and Priscilla, with president Pam Pfaff and Mrs. Madlin, planned a discussion which they were responsible for at the State JCL convention on March 5 in Chapel Hill.

Superior students of Spanish are in Honor Society

The Pedro Antonio de Alarcon chapter of Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica developed greater appreciation of Spanish culture and customs. Only those students having an average of ninety or better in first year Spanish were eligible for membership. In the fall the industrious "estudiantes" could be seen scurrying about selling Kleenex tissues from door to door. Profits from this sale were used to purchase a United States Savings Bond which was awarded to the conscientious student with the highest scholastic average in two years of Spanish.

Last spring the History Honor Society was formed to stimulate a deeper interest in history. It is composed of seniors who share more than a passing interest in the culture of past and present civilizations. The society met at the battleground to study the Battle of Guilford Courthouse, joined Woman's College students in seeing several films on Russian history, listened to the Greensboro Daily News political cartoonist, Mr. Sanders, talk on what is behind each cartoon, and had many lively discussions on world affairs. GHS's newest club took in new members twice during the year and met on first and third Tuesdays each month.

Junior Engineers give rocket-launching assembly

At the bi-weekly meetings of the Junior Engineers, interesting speakers presented topics relating to technical and industrial fields of science. Among the speakers were guests from chemical companies, plastic molding firms, biological supply firms and university research laboratories.

An annual project of the science club is the production of an assembly program. This year, because of the mushrooming interest in space travel, the program concerned the launching of a rocket.

The Junior Engineers have an active part in the Science Fair held in March. Besides helping with the planning and production, each member was expected to enter a project in the fair. With the help of the advisor, Mr. David Upstill, the Junior Engineers had a very interesting and successful year.

Monogram Club sponsors sports assembly in gym

Confused by half-nelson, free throw, hammer-lock? Not after the assembly sponsored by the Monogram Club! This program introduced to the student body the basketball and wrestling teams and demonstrated basic techniques involved in these sports. During the football season the lettermen sold programs and operated the down markers on the side lines.

Boys who had earned their big "G" in a varsity sport were eligible for membership in the Monogram Club. The organization promoted good sportsmanship in the student body and fellowship among athletes. It was on the field, in the gym, around GHS in general, and in close cooperation with the Athletics Department that the Monogram wearers fulfilled the club's purpose.

Inter-Club Council regulates service club projects

This year the members of Inter-Service Club Council met when there was important business to be considered. At the various Sunday afternoon meetings throughout the year, council members discussed work and projects of their own clubs and compared notes on progress and service to the school. Mrs. Pfaff, their advisor, helped most in preventing the overlapping of different projects by two or more clubs. The primary purpose of the organization was to cultivate a close relationship between Greensboro High School service clubs and to make "service" a watchword. The council's rules for all the service clubs were strictly enforced.

Junior Civinettes began the year by presenting each sophomore a "Welcome to GHS" pencil. They donated Leaves of Gold to the library as a memorial to Roger Hobbs. Civinettes joined Civitans in providing a current events bulletin board for the student body, and the two clubs attended church together once a month. At home football games the girls distributed blue-and-white shakers they had made. They painted the goal posts and sponsored buses to out-of-town games. On a Saturday morning with a little extra "elbow grease" they polished all the school trophies in the main hall and in the gym.

Funds from this sale bought copies of the classics for our school library, planted shrubbery on the front lawn, and tiled the office floor. To give everyone a chance to retrieve lost articles, Civinettes held a "lost and found" day. Also they sponsored a correct time announcement each morning. In January they emphasized the beginning of a new decade by giving every student a 1960 calendar. Next Civinettes helped the Children's Aid Society send out letters of appeal.

Highlights of the spring semester were the Civinette carnival and the state convention held in New Bern.

OFFICERS of Jr. Civitans: Gray, McSween, Whiteside, President Inman, Black, Garren, Hoyle.

In its fifth year of service, the Junior Civitan Club has done its share to improve Senior High. They began the year by giving all new students useful handbooks to help them get acquainted with the school. The fall was full of Civitan projects, as the boys followed the handbooks with pocket bulletin boards. Then the club kept up-to-date a large bulletin board in the main hall to remind students of coming athletic events; and to help the athletic association, they sold season tickets. The Civitans put up school spirit posters, filled holes in the teachers' parking lot; and, to improve the appearance of the big sign in front of the school, the boys painted the letters gold.

Civitan service did not stop at school, however, for the club members were active in community affairs. They stuffed envelopes for the Children's Home Society, collected for TB and March of Dimes drives; at Christmas they gave food, clothing, and money to two needy families. In the spring the boys provided a chest of school supplies to children overseas.

To make money to pay for all these projects, the Civitans compiled the football programs and served as ushers at the football games. But their most important money-making project was the fruit cake sale. The final project was the yearly "Hall of Fame" trophy given at the Awards Day assembly.

The Senior High Junior Civitan Club was also active in state Civitan business, since members of this club were state governor, treasurer, and sergeant-at-arms.

Junior Jaycees' gift to the school is permanent

To begin the year, the Junior Jaycees jumped right into serving Senior with projects to boost school spirit. To increase attendance at the football games, they held a "Name the Whirlibird" contest, with a transistor radio for the winner. Club members also repainted the trash cans that they gave the school two years ago. On the goldpost at football games, Junior Jaycees hung a banner which they had made for the team to

Each week the club honored one of the Senior's outstanding athletes on their "Athlete-of-the-Week" bulletin board. At the Awards Day assembly, club members gave the athlete-of-the-week judged most outstanding, the athlete-of-the-year trophy, the Roger Hobbs Award. Also on Award's Day they gave a $300 scholarship to an outstanding senior.

Making money to pay for all these projects was no problem for the boys, as they sold napkins and Kleenex and helped their sponsors, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, with paper drives and by picking up paper at the GGO.

Club members joined other clubs in collecting for the Heart Fund, the March of Dimes, and the TB drives. At the Honor Code assembly they presented the school marker with the Honor Code engraved on it. This was permanent evidence of one of their many service projects.

As indispensable as a key is to a lock, so is the Key Club to Senior High. Being the oldest service club at GHS, the boys had fine traditions to uphold, and they worked hard to do so. The first week of school the Key Club gave "Alma Mater" cards to sophomores and name tags to all teachers and students.

The members also donated oranges to home and visiting ball teams, and in the gym they hung banners for all 4-A conference teams. They distributed programs at basketball games, and prepared brochures about the various sports. Their most appreciated service was the Key Club Directory, compiled in the fall and distributed free to everyone. The directory paid its own way, through the sale of advertising space. To provide for other projects the boys sold "Go Whirlie" plates for automobiles of loyal drivers.

To keep the parking lot safe and less unsightly, the boys spent several afternoons picking up debris. And in the interest of school spirit they had the victory bell repaired for use of the cheerleaders at games. The Key Club helped with TB and March of Dimes drives, gave food and clothing to a needy family at Christmas, and treated underprivileged boys to a basketball and a football game.

At one meeting they had the Key Club members of the Reynolds football team as guests; at another time they were guests of the Page High Key Club for dinner and a meeting.

Energetic members of Les Amis Hi-Y Club undertook several fund-raising projects this year. Then they put their money to good use in making others happy. At Thanksgiving they contributed generously to a needy family; and at Christmas time they gave a party at the YMCA for a group of underprivileged children.

Les Amis showed their ability as expert salesmen by selling enough candy to raise their share of a $500 fund to be used in helping to establish YMCA's in foreign countries. This was a joint project shared by all of the Hi-Y clubs.

OFFICERS of Les Amis are E. Dyer, President Evans, Peebles, D. Dyer.

The Brothers, usually called Les Freres, were reorganized this year under new leadership. A new charter was issued to the club, and the boys began a year of service. The members helped collect for the March of Dimes and the Tuberculosis drive, and they participated in the YMCA's World Service Project to raise money for Korea. They raised a considerable portion of Greensboro's goal of $500 in this project.

As the Whirligig goes to press, the boys are planning a top-secret project to be revealed in the spring.

Philomathions give devotional books to homerooms

The Philomathion Hi-Y Club made this into a meaningful and useful year. To help in the community, the boys collected money for the Heart Fund and sold peanuts for the March of Dimes, in addition, the members sold candy to help with the YMCA's World Service Project for Korea. Club members also did helpful projects around the school, giving devotional pamphlets to each homeroom and supplying the wrestling team with oranges. In the interest of charity, Philomathions gave a Christmas party to a group of underprivileged children, with a certain president playing Santa.

DeMolay members combine services and pleasure

"Liberte, fraternite, egalite," the well-known French watchwords, could easily describe the spirit of the Order of DeMolay. The boys strive for reverence to God, sincere patriotism, and brotherhood, through freedom and equality.

DeMolay was one of the few clubs that combined dual roles of service and social activities this year. The boys collected for many charitable drives, gave one hundred dollars to the Oxford Orphanage, and presented GHS with a set of chimes for the public address system. But all work and no play would certainly have spoiled things for the DeMolays. A hayride, a dance, and a father-and-son dinner rounded out the social portion of the year.

Sports

Sportsmanship and fair play — do these qualities apply only to athletics? No. Sticking to the rules, cooperating, and practicing courtesy are all everyday essentials for a successful life. At Senior High the wide variety of sports provides every student the opportunity to develop a sense of fair play. An individual's participation — either as player or as fan — results in the growth of a more understanding and considerate personality.

Cheerleaders spark Whirlies on paths to victory

Beginning with the first football game last fall, student enthusiasm rose to a lofty peak. Endless antics of the Whirlibird and clever skits at pep rallies played an important part in enlightening students and encouraging support of Whirlie teams. The marching band was often on hand with stirring music. To all this was added vivid smiles and dynamic enthusiasm of the cheerleaders, and all combined to lift spirit of GHS fans to a new high.

Student support is loyal

The spirit students showed in their support made GHS teams feel they had won, regardless of the score. This spirit packed hundreds into buses to go to games in other cities; it made students sit through drenching rains to see the end of a football game; it filled the gym on cold winter nights. The students, with their shouts and cheers, were as much a part of the game as the players themselves.

With one of the most potent offenses of recent years, the 1959 Whirlies scored often and well. The backfield was led by Bob Jamieson, Jr. and Eddie Burton. Halfbacks Sonny Odom, Dave Morgan, and Ervin Byrd also carried much of the offensive burden. At ends Bayard vonHerrmann, who earned a reputation as one of the finest flank men in the state, and Joe Gray were outstanding. Other linemen who performed well were Bill Flynt, Al Walke, Jack Watson, Roger Lewis, Jack Nelson, Roger Purgason, and Pete Wachter. On defense Mike Wagoner, Allen Cheek, and Dennis Saunders were standouts.

Next year's GHS football squad should also prove powerful. Experienced halfbacks Odom, Byrd, and Morgan will be back, along with Dennis Saunders at quarterback. Outstanding linemen who will be returning include Bill McNairy, Johnny Hill, and Roger Lewis. Teamed with several excellent prospects from this year's junior varsity, these boys should provide GHS with another fine football team in 1960.

The 1959 junior varsity team won 8 of its 9 games. It was coached by Mr. Lewis McCall, who called the whole team "outstanding." During the season this team demonstrated its strength and potential in strenuous practice games with the varsity team.

Whirlie Basketball team wins top spot in conference

Basketball is annually one of the most popular and exciting sports at GHS, and the 1959-60 team gave the fans plenty of thrills and cause for pride. Coached by Mr. Robert Jamieson, in his twenty-seventh year as head coach at Senior High, the Whirlie cagers rolled to a conference championship and a berth in the state tournament. In this tournament they lost only to Raleigh, coming out with third place in the state.

Balanced scoring, excellent rebounding, and a tough zone defense made the GHS cagers a threat in every game. Center Bob Jamieson, rated as one of the best players in the state, proved his worth in tremendous rebounding and a good scoring touch. Lettermen Fred Black and Bayard vonHerrmann provided plenty of power and scrap under the basket, as well as good scoring. Two junior guards gave the Whirlies the spark and drive which they needed—R. F. Taylor, perhaps the best junior guard in the conference, had a fine scoring touch and phenomenal jumping ability; and James Team proved to be an excellent playmaker and scorer. His clutch baskets won several games for the Whirlies. Pete Horney, who began the season as a starter, and Bill Gibboney, who started several games, were the top Whirlie reserves. Both proved invaluable with their cool play. Other senior members of the squad were Herb Stout, Jim Perry, and Bill Barrier. Juniors Bill McNairy, Sonny Odom, Dave Morgan, Ervin Byrd, and Mike Peake should give the Whirlies another fine squad next season.

Coach Lewis McCall, who has ways of turning out well-conditioned, winning junior varsity teams, had another in 1959-60. Led by Ralph Lowe, Harold McCall, Dave Daniels, David Schwartz, and Steve Davis, the Whirlie junior varsity team won the Central Conference championship. Luke Medlin, "Bones" O'Brien, Charles Black, and Harold Holyfield were the top reserves.

Experienced swimmers Derby, Walters, and Paul Sikes returned in 1959-60, and at press-time Coach Frank Bondanella's team appears headed for another finish high in the state meet. Through February 20, the team's record was 3-2, with victories over Chapel Hill and Page, twice. New stars for the Whirlie team include Jimmy Petty, Skip Burwell, and Jody Peer.

The Whirlie matmen under the direction of Coach Claude Manzi finished the 1959 season by placing fifth in the state meet. Led by Jerry Patterson, Dick Parsons, Layne Sheffield, David Patrick, and Tommy Fiddler, the GHS team performed well all season and won four of six matches.

The 1959-60 Greensboro High grapplers enjoyed another satisfactory season, winning 6 of 8 matches. Jack Watson, Walton McNairy, Leith Singletary, and John Hill gave the Whirlies plenty of talent in the heavier classes; while Dave Howe, Vic Buchanan, Charles Harward, "Yank" Kirkman, and Phil Shu wrestled in the lighter weight divisions. The Whirlies finished fourth in the state meet, with Watson reaching the finals.

1959 Whirlie baseball hopes lay mainly in the performances of veteran stars. Coach Lewis McCall's team compiled a 13-3 record and went all the way to the finals of the state tournament before being eliminated.

Senior Jeff Newman made a brilliant 7-1 pitching record; juniors Bob Phillips and Don McGowan also pitched well. Whirlie hitting was good, with the team averaging over .300. Barry Morgan led the team in hitting and homeruns. Other fine hitters included seniors Tom Tuttle, Bill Swofford, Walter Barton, Eddie Pickard, Fred Groome.

As Whirligig goes to press, the 1960 team looks strong. Dave Morgan, Ervin Byrd, Dave Daniels, Joe Gray, Eddie Burton, and Winky Casey should make it another state title contender.

The 1959 GHS tennis team made a 5-3 record under the direction of Coach Frank Bondanella. The Whirlie netters defeated Winston-Salem, Page High, and High Point. Randy Blackwell, Ashley James, and Dave Howe represented GHS in the state meet, but lost in the first round.

Seniors Blackwell, James, Bennett Glass, Allen Weinberg, and Paul Harrell led the Whirlies all season. Howe and Dickie Bowen also played well. At press time, the 1960 team appears strong, with lettermen Howe and Bowen back, along with Pete Horney, Dave Raynor, and Bill Enoch.

Girls' physical education is full of fun and action

GAA COUNCIL: Crabtree, Farrington, Quinn, Presiden Overby, Mrs. Lambert, Sanvageau, Cann, Mann.

Girls' physical education at Senior High is a fast-moving program—six classes of girls every day who change activity to suit season or weather, and various organized teams. Frequent play days reveal which girls have become fastest or most expert in an individual or a group activity. The Girls' Athletic Council began the year by sponsoring a volleyball play day for students from all junior high schools in Greensboro. The GAA sold candy and sweat shirts to raise money for new shower mats. In February the GAA held open house for girls interested in joining the association. This brought in fifty new members. As Whirligig goes to press the girls' basketball team is well into its season, with daily workouts and practices. The biggest event looked forward to for the spring is the annual play day at High Point, in which GHS girls won second place last year.

Girls' Swimming Team includes record-breakers

The girls on the GHS swimming team practiced at the Woman's College pool Monday through Friday from six to seven p.m., and even got up early to swim on Saturdays. The team has won several meets, including seven last summer. They had held the Southeastern Invitational title for five consecutive years, but came in with a close second this February in Atlanta.

Several of the mermaids have broken records. Frances McNairy holds the 100-yard breaststroke title; while Karen Gill, a distance swimmer, smashed the 400-yard freestyle record, as well as that of the 3-mile swim.

Features

High school is one of the first places where individuals find it necessary to compete with one another for an upper rung on the ladder of success. Effort is still the major requirement for reaching the top. Elections at Senior High present opportunities for proving ability, while music contests and appointment to various committees offer incentives for doing one's best. Finally, awards and graduation honors spotlight those who have made "extra effort" an essential part of their everyday lives.

Christmas pageant by seniors is colorful pantomime

WISE MEN and Herod have a prominent role in the Christmas story.

Continuing in a tradition set long ago at Greensboro Senior High, the class of 1960 presented their interpretation of the Christmas story as recorded in "St. Luke." The performance in pantomime began with the angel Gabriel informing Mary of her sacred task. It ended in a majestic climax as the three Wise Men approached the manger.

Vera LeCraw and Skip Jones portrayed Mary and Joseph in the production, advised by Miss Sara Mims and Miss Dixie Huske. Under the direction of Miss Eula Tuttle and Miss Jeanne Meredith, the choir and glee clubs sang twelve inspirational carols.

Science Fair reveals student interest and industry

GAS compression project by Williams is 1960 entry.

1959 WINNER by Starmer counts cosmic rays.

Ambitious students from chemistry, physics, and biology competed in the 1959 Science Fair in the boys' gym on March 20. Thousands of hours of planning and actual work went into over 200 entries, and 18 students won ribbons for outstanding projects. As this Whirligig goes to press in February 1960, even more projects are well past the planning stage and on their way to completion for this year's Fair.

MICOLOGY display by Williams, and, below, McNairy's histology of photomicography project win top biology awards.

TELESCOPE by Sawers is 1960 physics entry.

LINDA JOHNSON beams as Jerry Robertson, GHS President, crowns her May Queen of 1959.

Yesteryear splendor under the title of "The Old South" was the theme of the 1959 May Day. Its success was the result of weeks of planning and preparation by Mr. Hubert Morrow and many committees.

The day was perfect. New-green trees and a brilliant blue sky lent added vividness to rainbow-hued dresses of the Queen's attendants and crisp black and white attire of their escorts.

Crowning of Queen Linda Johnson by GHS President Jerry Robertson started the revelry. In quaint, colorful costumes, dancers brought back such long-forgotten dances as the Patty-Cake Polka, the Rochester Schottische, and — liveliest of all—the Paul Jones Mixer.

Color, charm, and stateliness of the "Old South"

MAYPOLE dance lends traditional note to the day.

Tradition was observed too in the winding of a maypole. Then the elegant Minuet, performed with stately grace by the attendants and escorts, was an all-too-soon reminder that our brief day in "The Old South" had passed.

MAY DAY at GHS means pretty girls, lovely dresses, and handsome boys.

Spring Prom, Midwinter's are dances to remember

DANCERS at the Spring Prom are lost in the romantic mood of "Parisian Holidays."

INTERMISSION is time for special entertainment that fascinates couples lining balcony.

The really memorable dances at Senior always celebrate the end of an examination week. Last year's Senior Prom in the boys' gym was a scene of gayety, with its "Parisian Holidays" motif — a sidewalk cafe, soft lights, flowers and sentimental music to create a romantic mood.

On January 25, our Midwinter's Dance transported celebrating couples for one evening to "Mardi Gras." Masses of balloons and miles of colorful streamers surrounded the dancers. It was easy to forget the ordeals of exams behind and registration yet to come in the revelry of a carefree and happy evening.

DANCERS and "beauty" make "monogram club" meeting on Class Day unique.

"High Moon" was the theme of the 1959 Class Day, featuring that ever popular topic —the space age. Seniors reviewed the unearthly years at GHS on a lunar tour, for which transportation was provided by an 18-foot rocket. Upon arrival they were greeted by Lunartics — or teachers. With them they revisited the classrooms and held a really serious induction into the Moonshine Local Scummers Society. On their return to earth the students were entertained with takeoffs of the teachers at lunch. Athletes captured the spotlight in an imaginary meeting of the Monogram Club which stressed the importance of the feminine element in the well-rounded training program.

THIS ENGLISH class is really "out-of-this-world."

Finally after the last laugh had ended and the last tear had been wiped away, Seniors rose to sing their final tribute to GHS.

Seniors' last weeks range from social to serious

In May, graduation fever ran through the Senior Class like an epidemic. Anticipation, excitement, nostalgia — and late hours — were a part of all they did during those last hectic days.

Awards Day, on May 19, revealed many seniors as recipients of top honors in scholarship or extra-curricular activities. Then Class Day, with its fun and fantasy, became another of the treasured memories of Seniors; and it was finally time for the Senior tea at the Woman's College Alumnae House. Here Seniors were honored at the annual reception given by the GHS faculty. Senior homeroom teachers, Senior Class officers, Mr. and Mrs. Routh, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn, and Superintendent and Mrs. Weaver formed the receiving line.

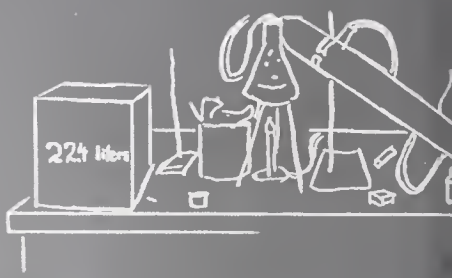
WORDS OF WISDOM for departing seniors are by graduation speaker Dr. Kenneth Goodson.

Commencement Week was a happy-and-sad climax of twelve years filled with individual growth and varied experiences. On Sunday, May 31, Seniors went to the First Presbyterian Church for Dr. John Redhead's Baccalaureate sermon, which left them much to ponder.

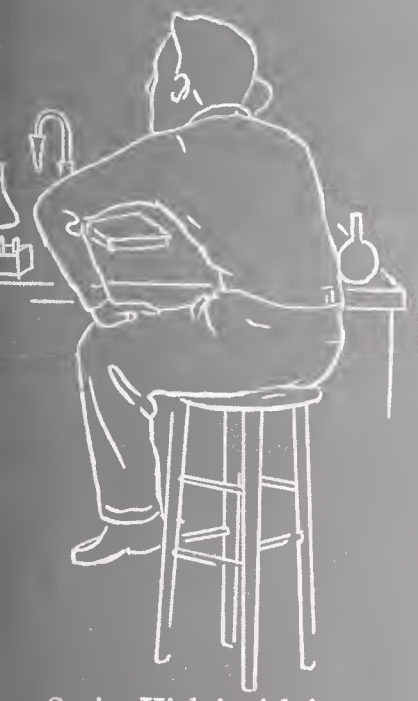
Graduation night came at last on June 4, and it was held for the third time in the gymnasium. Dr. Kenneth Goodson spoke briefly, but with wisdom. And then the prize each had waited and worked so long for was theirs — a diploma from the hands of Superintendent Weaver.

CULMINATING three hard years, seniors receive diplomas from Superintendent P. J. Weaver.

CLASS of 1959 listens more or less intently to the speaker's inspiring graduation message.



Advertisements



Senior High is rich in opportunities for nourishing good judgment and developing business sense. Selling advertising space in our many school publications is only one of numerous glimpses into the world of business made available by the school. Students in cooperative classes spend more time on their jobs than in classrooms. Treasurers of classes, homerooms, and organizations learn to budget, to buy and sell wisely, to carry out profitable projects. Experience gained now is invaluable to a successful future, whether as producer, salesman, or merely astute consumer.

We are grateful . . .

The last copy has been written and checked, the last picture taken and dispatched to the engraver, and the 1960 Whirligig is being "put to bed." Many hours of work, planning and thought have gone into making this a book we hope every student will be proud to own. Before Mr. Fleming carries our dummy and copy off to his printers, we feel impelled to pause for a moment to express our sincere gratitude to many people who have given us so much aid and inspiration that without them this book could not have been published.

MR. FRANK FLEMING, MR. EARL POWELL, and their fine craftsmen at Washburn Printing Company have answered our questions and given us endless help and encouragement in our printing problems. At Jahn and Ollier Engraving Company, MR. GORDON BRIGHTMAN, MR. JOHN HANCOCK, and their assistants and craftsmen were of invaluable help in the preparation of our dummy and in the expert production of superior engravings for our book. We are especially grateful to Mr. Hancock for the idea around which the theme of this Whirligig is built, and to Mr. Brightman, who flew down from Chicago to deliver the idea in person and help and inspire us as this book first took shape. MR. MALCOLM MILLER and MR. CAROL MARTIN of Martin's Studio gave us graciously their always-superior candid and group photography and advice. MR. FAY SMITH and his photographers of Smith Studio deserve our thanks for the pleasant and efficient way they photographed individual students. On the staffs of Greensboro Daily News and Greensboro Record, many men have been helpful and generous in supplying us sports pictures. MR. JOHN CATHEY and MR. ROY MATHERLY have been especially helpful. MR. DALE KEARNS, free lance photographer has also been helpful in taking sports pictures. The editor of High Life and the photographer, Bill Good, have been generous with pictures; and the annual bound volume of High Life we couldn't possibly do without!

Many faculty members also have given generously of time and effort, advice and patience in helping us accomplish our purpose. MR. DON DARNELL was indispensable in helping us prepare some of our engraving copy. MRS. MARGARET HADDEN and MRS. KATHRYN McENTIRE were patient and generous in allowing us the use of their telephone and typewriters. To MISS IDA BELLE MOORE, MRS. JESSIE COLTRANE, MISS ROWENA MONTAGUE, and to all the teachers who helped us immeasurably by taking up money in Whirligig sales and letting students out of homeroom and an occasional class for pictures and work on the Whirligig, we owe our deepest gratitude.

Eighteen very busy people, whose pictures appear on our division pages, were especially gracious in their willingness to take time for answering questions and sending us pictures of themselves. They combined to make preparing the theme of this book a truly pleasant and appealing task.

Especially to MR. A. P. ROUTH, MR. STEWART COLSON, our business advisor, and to MISS VIRGINIA POWELL, our patient advisor, without whose aid and advice we could have done nothing, we express our sincerest thanks.

Sherry and Beverly
